Briefing to the Incoming Minister of Conservation

Congratulations on your appointment and welcome to the Conservation portfolio; the New Zealand Conservation Authority / Te Pou Atawhai Taiao O Aotearoa (Authority) looks forward to working closely with you. I am writing to you, on behalf of the full Authority, to provide an introduction and overview of our role, and to highlight the areas and issues that are of particular focus for us.

In its nature, conservation is focused on intergenerational progress; this is a pivotal time for this progress, with several high profile and high value workstreams that hold potential for considerable positive change. I hope to work closely with both you and Penny Nelson, Director-General of Conservation, to ensure the Department of Conservation / Te Papa Atawhai (Department) is strategic and purposeful in its management of public conservation land and waters for the enduring benefit of our future generations.

An introduction to the Authority

The Authority is an independent statutory body, established by section 6A of the Conservation Act 1987 (Act). Its primary purposes are to act as an independent advisor to you and the Director-General on conservation matters of national importance; to monitor the effectiveness of the Department's administration of general policies; and, to approve statutory management plans and strategies.

Its membership is appointed by the Minister of Conservation in consultation with various Ministers, on recommendation from key stakeholders, and from public nominations (see Attachment 1 for a list of current members). The Authority is committed to collaborative models in the management of public conservation lands and waters, and advocates for the public interest in the Department's management of these areas.

The Authority meets six times a year, and you are invited to all of these meetings (see Attachment 2 for details). The Authority undertakes a significant portion of its work outside of formal meetings, by way of standing committees. This enables us to form working relationships with Department staff and ensure we are well informed to provide you and the Director-General with high quality and timely advice.

In addition to its functions in the Act, the Authority has functions in the National Parks Act 1980, the Wildlife Act 1953, the Marine Reserves Act 1971, the Reserves Act 1977, the Wild Animal Control Act 1977, and the Marine Mammals Protection Act 1978.

Our role as independent advisors to you and the Director-General

The Authority investigates issues it considers of national importance, to effectively provide high-quality advice to you and the Director-General, in accordance with its functions under section 6B(d) of the Act. Throughout the past year, in addition to discussions within its meetings, the Authority has advised the Minister on the following matters:

- Stewardship Land options to streamline processes, in March 2022
- Otago Conservation Management Strategy partial review, in May 2022
- Stewardship Land Reclassification process, in September 2022
- Crown Minerals Amendment Bill, in September 2022
- Seabird Bycatch, in October 2022
- Nominations to the Te Urewera Board, in October 2022
- Bottom Trawling in New Zealand waters, in November 2022
- SOP on natural quiet in the Civil Aviation Bill, in November 2022
- NZCA advice on the Department's expenditure of money 2023-24, January 2023

The Authority would value a regular exchange of views on issues of significance to conservation. I have found routine meetings with the Minister to be mutually beneficial and suggest that we continue this tradition to keep abreast of the matters each of us may be considering in between meetings. In addition, I would like to take this opportunity to offer my personal number as a means of contact for discussion of issues as and when required (021 900 014).

Similarly, I maintain regular monthly meetings with the Director-General, whose attendance, alongside that of her Senior Leadership Team, at the Authority's meetings enables an exchange of strategic advice and guidance on issues important to the Department's future success.

Our role as advisors and approvers of general policy and statutory plans

The Authority has functions to advise on statements of general policy, and to approve conservation management strategies and plans under section 6B of the Act. The Authority has functions to advise on, prepare, and approve statements of general policy for national parks, and to approve management plans for national parks under section 18 of the National Parks Act 1980.

These statutory documents ensure the most robust protection for Aotearoa New Zealand, by providing documents, developed in a democratic process with New Zealanders and more recently in partnership with whānau, hapū, and iwi that guide the Department's management of our public conservation lands, as well as the public's use of, and access to, those lands.

The current focus areas of the Authority

The Authority is progressing through its workplan for the current reporting year, which I look forward to sharing with you in the near future. Alongside its strategic priorities, that provide long term goals and direction (included in Attachment 3), the Authority has identified the following areas that are crucial to deliver on in the upcoming year:

1. Partial reviews of the general policies: In 2019, in response to the Supreme Court decision in the Ngāi Tai ki Tāmaki matter, the Minister and NZCA initiated reviews of the two general policies to ensure they gave better recognition to the role of tangata whenua in conservation management, and to help the Department meet its Tiriti obligations. The Options Development Group (ODG) was established to provide advice to you and the NZCA on how best to give effect to the Court's decision. The Authority received the ODG's report in April 2022 and is dedicated to ensuring the partial reviews of the General Policy for National Parks and the Conservation General Policy are completed to accurately give effect to the Treaty of Waitangi / Tiriti o Waitangi. The Authority expects that enhanced conservation outcomes should flow from strong Māori-Crown partnerships.

2. Conservation Management Strategies (CMSs) and National Park Management Plans (NPMPs): The Authority has long been concerned with the statutory management planning system, and the Department's processes to better give effect to this system. Although we were able to approve the Otago CMS partial review at our June 2022 meeting, this is the first statutory strategy or plan to come before the Authority for consideration and approval since the Wellington CMS in 2018.

The increasing delays in reviewing statutory plans has been a considerable focus for Authority work over the past two years. Following a report and subsequent addendum to the Minister and Director-General on the matter in December 2020 and March 2021 (respectively), the Department actioned the Authority's second recommendation, for an external review of the management planning system to be undertaken. The Department engaged the Environmental Defence Society (EDS) for this review, and the report was received by the Department and the Authority in December 2022.

3. Stewardship Land Reclassification: The Authority has long advocated for reclassification of stewardship land, and the implementation of the Government's commitment to end mining on public conservation land. We are supportive of the work of the National and Manawhenua Panels in progressing this work in the Western South Island and are currently investigating the Authority's procedure and involvement in resulting recommendations relating to additions to national parks, in accordance with our statutory functions under the National Parks Act 1980 and the General Policy for National Parks. This will include investigation into issues that Te Rūnanga o Ngāi Tahu have expressed regarding National Park access.

4. Climate and biodiversity crises: The Authority has been engaged in the development of Te Mana o te Taiao / Aotearoa New Zealand Biodiversity Strategy (TMoTT) and were pleased to see the Implementation Plan launched early last year; and the Authority has regularly advised Directors-General and Ministers on its importance. To be achieved, however, there will need to be a range of implementation measures across Government, across land tenures, and across domains (marine, land, and freshwater). We will continue to advocate for the Department to champion the changes required for TMoTT to succeed.

To ensure true measurement and success of initiatives to adapt to the looming climate and biodiversity crises (such as TMoTT, Predator Free 2050, and the Department's Climate Change Adaption Action Plan), the Authority stresses the necessity for further commitment to scientific environmental research and ongoing socialisation of these significant issues.

5. Conservation Law Reform: The Authority are currently engaging with the Department on the programme of conservation law reform. We have established a committee that will be working closely with yourself and Department staff, initially on the Wildlife Act Review. I believe we are strategically placed to provide input into critical junctures in this workstream. At this early stage, the Authority supports the ambition of this work to create a fit for purpose ecosystem-based approach to species protection and management that reflects the full relationship that whānau, hapū and iwi have with taonga species and te taiao. We have so far held a number of workshops on the fundamental questions posed in fuller scale law reform whilst also taking a deep dive in modernising the Wildlife Act 1953.

We are also engaging on the Conservation Management and Processes issues, that will endeavour to deliver more immediate improvements to the conservation system.

6. Marine conservation: The Authority continues to advocate for marine protection in such matters as the Marine Protected Areas Reform; there is a consistent need to elevate marine conservation to appropriately achieve an integrated mountain-to-sea approach to biodiversity and conservation efforts.

Our role as advocates

The Authority, in accordance with section 6B(g) of the Act, has a function to encourage and participate in educational and publicity activities for the purposes of bringing about a better understanding of nature conservation. In the past year, members have attended various events including: the EDS Conference 2022 Transforming Aotearoa; the Minister's conservation law reform announcement in Wellington; the launch of the TMoTT Implementation Plan; and meetings of the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN), JD Stout Trust, and the Tahr Plan Implementation Liaison Group. Members are based across the country and will continue to be available to attend and provide support to you in events such as these, as and when opportunities arise.

In addition, the Authority advocates for conservation by periodically making submissions on a range of issues. Most recently, this has been on items such as:

- Natural and Built Environment and Spatial Planning Bills
- Joint DOC & LINZ Long-term Insights Briefing
- Hauraki Gulf Marine Protection Proposals
- Proposed Changes to the Wetland Regulations
- Te Ara Paerangi – Future Pathways
- Draft National Policy Statement for Indigenous Biodiversity
- National Policy Statement for Freshwater Management
- National Environmental Standards for Freshwater (including wetland regulations)

The Authority's relationship with the conservation boards

Another of the Authority's roles is to act as a conduit for the fifteen Conservation Boards (see Attachment 4) to report on the implementation of conservation management strategies and conservation management plans, and to raise conservation issues relating to any area within their rohe.

Conservation Boards have a regulatory function in monitoring the use of and access to the public conservation land that covers one-third of Aotearoa New Zealand. The relationship between Conservation Boards and the Authority is enabled through liaison roles, an annual conference, and regular reporting. The Conservation Board Chairs' Conference offers an excellent opportunity for Board Chairpersons to meet one another and engage on common issues; to receive direction on your expectations as Minister; and meet with the Director-General. Dates are still to be confirmed for this year's conference.

The Authority would like to meet with you as soon as is convenient, to introduce ourselves and to learn about your priorities; to this end, I would like to invite you to attend our next meeting in Rotorua on 26 and 27 April, in person or via Microsoft Teams, and invite you also to attend a session with the Conservation Board Chairpersons at their Conference later this year.
