

TAKE ACTION FOR NATURE

TAKE ACTION FOR NATURE

at your workplace this Conservation Week in 3 easy steps

1. RUN A WORKPLACE ACTIVITY

Take the daily Conservation Week quiz

Are you a nature nerd? Prove it! Build team knowledge while connecting with nature and each other by taking the daily quiz.

Support marine scientists via Spyfish Aotearoa

Help spot species of fish online during your break.

Enjoy a local short walk

Improve team wellbeing and get your steps in by having a meeting while taking a stroll in your area.

Run a beach clean-up

Step away from your screen and help nature thrive by cleaning up your local beach with teammates.

Complete the online Aotearoa New Zealand bird ID course

Nature looks and sounds different from here. Learn how to identify 10 native birds by sight and sound by completing an online course.

Relax over a lunchtime screening of Fiordland Kiwi Diaries

Break out the popcorn and enjoy a guaranteed kiwi encounter by screening the Department of Conservation's award-winning miniseries.

2. CAPTURE CONTENT

Take photos of you and your workmates taking action for nature during your activity.

3. SHARE TO WIN

Post photos on your intranet and social channels during Conservation Week.

Tag us in your content using @docgovtnz.

Encourage your followers to take action for nature in ways that suit them and use the hashtag #ConservationWeek.

The top 5 business activity posts will be shared into the Department of Conservation's own social channels, giving their businesses increased visibility.
