Hiya Matt,

Hope you're having a good week.

In our conversation last week, I think you mentioned the approach LINZ takes when it comes to health and safety regarding buildings with a seismic risk? I think you said you looked at a cordon around the building at a distance that is 1.5x the height of the building?

Can you please confirm if I got that right, and also if you have any other advice around health and safety matters for buildings with a seismic risk?

Cheers,
Stacey
